Midsummer's Masquerade

Hail and Well Met!

Welcome to our Midsummer's Masquerade!

The Duchess and Duke of Appalachia are celebrating the return of summer to the Duchy as well as relief from the plague that has beset all our houses since last year. We want to thank everyone for doing their part in combating the plague and ensuring that the Duchy is able to have a midsummer celebration this year. How better to mark this occasion with a proper soirée than to host a masquerade for all our wonderful denizens of the Duchy? We are so very pleased that you all could join us, and do wish that you have the most wonderful and enjoyable of times!

Because we know you all have come in your very best, do enter into our contest of costume for a chance to win a grand prize hand-picked by the Duchess herself! Enjoy the sonorous sounds of some of our most favorite of musicians as they take to the stage to play for us all, and delight in the respected and solemn Calling of the Clans hailing from Scotland.

Do stop by the Court Tent so that we may greet you with a proper “hello,” and so that we may personally wish you a Happy Masquerade.

Make merry in our magnificent Duchy and partake in all the enjoyments we have prepared for you!

Our story is set in the late 1580s, just before the death of Mary Queen of Scots. Seventeen years ago, the Queen gave birth to a healthy set of twins, a boy and a girl. Her ladies in waiting—the famous five Marys—concealed this birth as a miscarriage, and spirited children out of the chamber. Mary Fleming, one of her ladies in waiting and first cousin who bears similar physical traits, had recently spurned an arranged marriage to one of Queen Elizabeth’s spies. Fleming instead married the Scottish Earl of Ettick, Andrew Fraser. Mary Queen of Scotland then gifted the Frasers the titles of Duke and Duchess and sent them to found a Scottish Dutchy in the New World... and to raise the twins in safety, as their own.

With the help of those loyal to Queen Mary and with the magical creatures living in the dense and wild Appalachian Mountains, the Duke and Duchess have not only raised the children and kept them hidden from those in both Scotland and England who would seek to do them harm, but have also established a quickly growing land. It has become a safe haven for Catholic refugees fleeing England, an open space for the fae folk to frolic freely, and a new beginning for former pirates who have established the Three Sheets To the Wind Tavern. The court of the Duke and Duchess is small, but noble and strong.

Join the Frasers as their story and the stories of those around them unfold in the town of Faircross at the Appalachian Renaissance Faire.
